Q.4 I'd like to ask how optimistic or pessimistic you are about Britain's economy. Thinking about all the things that may affect the economy - such as changes in salaries and wages, the level of interest rates and tax, the rates of inflation and unemployment, and the strength of the pound - how do you think the British economy will fare over the next year for the country as a whole?

Q.8 Some people regard climate change as far and away the most serious problem we face as a country and internationally. Other people say that climate change is a very serious problem, but other problems are even more important. And some people say that climate change is not really a serious problem at all. Which of these is closest to your view?

Q.13 This week the Lisbon Treaty, which reforms the working of the EU and creates a new position of EU President, completed the final stage of its ratification by EU member states and will shortly become law. Some people have said that even though it is now too late to hold a referendum on the Lisbon Treaty, there should be a referendum early in the next Parliament on the general issue of Britain's relations with the EU. Other people have said that it would be pointless to have a referendum unless specific further changes in Britain's relations with the EU were being proposed - and that the upcoming general election will enable the political parties to seek a clear mandate for their general approach to relations with the EU, making a referendum unnecessary. Which of these viewpoints do you agree with more?
